

A Contribution to Hittite Onomastic Studies

Although a supplement to the standard catalogue of Hittite and related Anatolian personal names has recently appeared, numerous names may already be added to the corpus, both from newly-published material and from sources previously overlooked or unavailable.

Emmanuel Laroche has recently presented a supplement to his Les noms des hittites (Paris, 1966),¹ bringing his book up to date through the publication of KBo XXVI, KUB L, PRU VI, and Ugaritica VII. Since the completion of Laroche's manuscript, however, a number of new sources have appeared—most notably KBo XXVII, KUB LI, the catalogue of E. Borowski's collection of Anatolian seals, and the fifth volume of the final publication of the Boghazköy excavations. Because of the importance of this onomastic compilation for all scholars interested in Anatolian studies, I give here my additions and corrections in the hope that they will be of use until Prof. Laroche is able to prepare a new edition of his indispensable work.

The format and abbreviations employed in this listing follow for the most part those of Laroche's monograph and article.² I have not included names from passages and seals which are either very fragmentary, or whose reading is extremely uncertain. The system of transcription of the hieroglyphs is basically that presented by Laroche in Les hiéroglyphes hittites, I (Paris, 1960).
