Detroit Summer Youth Employment Program: Results of 2013 Youth Employee Exit Surveys

University of Michigan – School of Social Work Good Neighborhoods Technical Assistance Center

I. Introduction

In the summer of 2013, the Detroit Youth Employment Consortium helped coordinate the employment of around 3350 youth across the city of Detroit. Youth ages 14 to 21 years were employed for six weeks in a variety of positions, from urban forestry and environmental conservation to small business and pharmacy internships. The 2013 Detroit Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP) represents the fifth consecutive year the public, private, and non-profit sectors have collaborated to bring high-quality opportunities for youth.

A. National Context of Youth Unemployment

While in many respects the American economy is recovering from the peak of the Great Recession in 2009, the employment situation among youth remains particularly dire, especially for minority youth in large metropolitan areas such as Detroit.

In 2013, the annual unemployment rate among the civilian, noninstitutionalized population was 7.4 percent. The rate among youth ages 16-19 was three times the national rate, 22.9 percent. Youth have fewer employment options available, and are able to work fewer hours than adults, but even accounting for these obstacles youth seeking employment find it more difficult than adults.

It is no secret the Great Recession has been hard on Michigan, and especially hard on Detroit.² In 2013, the City filed for bankruptcy protection, the largest municipal filing in American history. The Bureau of Labor Statistics does not make unemployment estimates for youth at the state or municipal level, but in 2013 the unemployment rate for the civilian, noninstitutionalized population of Michigan was 8.8 percent,³ and 18.6 percent for Detroit (in 2012).⁴ If the national trends for youth hold, then the unemployment rate among youth in Detroit, Michigan, is even higher.

B. Workforce Investment Act funding

Employment during youth is associated with many positive developmental outcomes; however, because of child labor restrictions, youth employment often requires a substantial government subsidy. The Workforce Investment Act (WIA) provides a direct subsidy to youth employed during the summer months of June, July, and August. In order to qualify, youth must be between the ages of 14 and 21, and meet any of the following criteria⁵:

- Receives or resides in a household that receives public assistance.
- Received an income for the last six months, or resides in a household for the same period, that, did not exceed the poverty line, base on the size of the household.
- Qualifies as a homeless youth, or is currently in foster care.
- Has a disability or some other factor that is a significant barrier to employment.

C. Detroit Summer Youth Employment Program

WIA funds come to the City of Detroit, which partners with City Connect to administer the Detroit Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP for short). This is a substantial undertaking that requires recruiting employers to participate and determining the eligibility of youth who apply. There are often more applicants than there are available jobs, so even applicants who qualify are not guaranteed summer employment. Still, in 2013 SYEP employed 3,347 youth (1907 through Grow Detroit's Young Talent and 1440 through Youth Employment Solutions and Detroit Employment Solutions Corporation programs). Employers included the Detroit Police Department, local non-profit organizations, small businesses, and more. Youth engaged in a wide variety of activities on the job, including youth mentorship, greening and landscaping, office work, etc.

What evaluations of youth employment programs have shown is that quality programs have matched youth to sites based on interest, and have given youth opportunities to exhibit leadership and responsibility⁶. We used this literature as a starting point for evaluating SYEP.

D. About This Report

What follows are responses from a questionnaire youth completed upon exiting the program in August of 2013. 2,083 responses were collected. Figures 1-30 present the distribution of responses to each item on the questionnaire. Additionally, we aggregate qualitative responses on several items, including youths' impressions of SYEP and their improvement recommendations. We also include an analysis of the data by gender, age group, and scholastic achievement.

Question 35: In a few words, how can we make SYEP better next year?

- · Many participants say they like the program the way it is.
- Large emphasis on increased pay rate, being allowed to work more hours including overtime, and having requirements based on age and year in school for each.
 - It was also noted that participants preferred to be paid weekly instead of bi-weekly.
- Participants placed emphasis on having better, more fun, and relatively close (to their place of residence) job options.
 - Many also wanted to be allowed to choose their own employer as opposed to one being randomly chosen or assigned.
- Many recommendations were made to begin the program in June or extend the program so that it may be year round.
- Organizational issues of SYEP were called into question by some participants with regards to activities, scheduling, timesheets, and method of payment.
- Participants inquired about having more knowledge about the program, their role within the program and what is expected of them.
- Lunches: have better quality lunches, allow students to take a lunch break, and others inquired about providing lunches for students or informing them that they should have to bring their own.
- Policies surrounding dress code were called into question with regards to the amount of shirts they receive, the color of the shirts, and getting rid of the dress code altogether.
- More activities and field trips were requested.
- Participants reported the lack of publicity and advertisement made it harder for other youth know about the program.
- Participants reported that the program needed funding and should consider hosting fundraising events with the assistance of the youth.
 - As well as obtaining sponsorships and partnerships with DPS schools and other local businesses.
- Inquiries made about changing the age requirements for the program.
- ID's and dress code prevented many students from boarding buses to get to their work sites.
- Creating a screening process for the beginning and the end of the program.
- A few difficult or hostile work environments were reported.
- Participants reported not being paid until the very end of the program.

Question 36: Share any job skills you would have liked to have learned but didn't.

- Participants wanted to obtain skills specific to their field of interest.
- Many participants reported learning all that they wanted to learn.
- Computer skills were the highest reported skill that participants would have liked to have learned.
- A few participants reported that they didn't learn anything.
- Communication skills, money management, resume creation and maintenance, public speaking, teamwork, and time management were among the highly reported skills that participants would have liked to learn.
- Participants reported a necessity to learn how to work with others, lead others and work under others.

Question 37: Share any additional comments you have about your job site or SYEP?

- More than half of the participants did not answer this question
- Participants identified a specific teacher, mentor or supervisor in their response
- A large portion of participants reported that they will return next year or at least try to.
- Participants reported that they were appreciative of the program because it gave them something to do in the summer.
- Many participants reported a form of joy from their co-workers, their work site or their supervisor.
- Over ¾ of participants that responded reported having fun in the program and/or learning from the program.
- Participants wrote about their job site and/or their overall experience.
- Participants reported feelings of entitlement to being employed after the program as well as higher positions.

III. Statistical Results

In previous years, we have found females to get more out of SYEP than males. Similarly, older youth have more substantial work histories, and are at a different developmental stage than younger youth; we should expect to see differences between these groups. Finally, it may be that those who get the most out of the program are also the highest achieving; we wish to examine this possibility. The analyses follow.

Gender

Employment and Academic Skills:

On average females reported learning significantly (p<0.001) more employment related skills (Mean 2.74, SD 0.03) than males (Mean 2.58, SD 0.03). Similarly, females reported learning significantly (p<0.05) more academic skills (Mean 0.48, SD 0.02) at their employment sites than did males (Mean 0.42, SD 0.02).

Education:

In addition to reporting greater academic skills acquired on the job, females also self-reported earning significantly (p<0.001) higher grades in school (Mean 3.01, SD 0.04) than males (Mean 3.47, SD 0.05), while at the same time expressing a significantly (p<0.001) greater desire to go further in school (Mean 4.98, SD 0.04) than males (Mean 4.60, SD 0.05). Perhaps owing to this forward-looking view, females were also significantly (p<0.001) more likely to express a desire to leave Michigan in five years (Mean 2.58, SD 0.03) than males (Mean 2.33, SD 0.03).

Employment Experience and Community Involvement:

Males were significantly (p<0.001) more likely to report having worked for pay in the past (70.2%) than were females (62.9%). Similarly, males were significantly (p<0.001) more involved in their communities than females, with 51.8% reporting involvement in their neighborhood to 36.7% for females.

Age

Education:

Younger youth were more enthusiastic about school than older youth. A significantly (p<0.05) greater percentage (43.85) of 14-15 year-olds reported earning mostly A's and B's, than those 20+ years of age (30.57). Likewise, a greater percentage of 20+ year-olds reported earning mostly C's (38.34) than 14-15 year-olds (31.93). Similarly, 46.1% of 16-17 year-olds expect to go to a four-year college, versus 27.6% among 20+ year-olds. Perhaps aided by such optimism, a higher percentage of 14-15 year-olds expressed a desire to leave Michigan (21.8%) than 20+ year-olds (15.5%).

Saving:

Older youth are clearly more concerned with managing their money than younger youth. A significantly (p<0.01) greater percentage of 20+ year-olds report always saving (28.5%) than 14-15 year-olds (16.0%). Similarly, only 16.6% of 20+ year-olds report rarely saving, versus 22.5% among 14-15 year-olds.

Employment Experience:

For the majority of younger youth, those 14-15 years of age, SYEP represented their first employment experience (52.2%). As age increases, the percentage of those who have worked before increases as well; 87.5% of 20+ year-olds indicate they have worked before.

Grades

Education:

For those with poor academic records, there is some indication SYEP is especially beneficial. For example, among those who report earning mostly D's and F's, 29.6% report learning four skills necessary for future employment, which is a significantly (p<0.05) greater percentage than those who report earning mostly A's and B's (16.9%). Similarly, among those who earn D's and F's, 40.9% report acquiring at least one academic skill on the job, versus 30.7% among those who earn A's and B's. However, a significantly greater (p<0.001) percentage of those earning A's and B's expect to go further in school than those earning D's and F's. For example, 86% of A's and B's expect to attend either four-year college or graduate school, while 62% of D's and F's expect to do so.

Saving:

Among those earning A's and B's there is significantly (p<0.001) greater attention to money management than among those earning D's and F's. 24% of A's and B's report always saving, while the percentage is 18.60 among those with D's and F's.

Lessons and Implications

- SYEP offers young people in Detroit the opportunity to work and gain new skills. Many report learning problem solving and organizational skills. Although the majority report learning general employment readiness skills, such as how to work and communicate with others as well as how to act, few report learning more specific ones such as public speaking and computer skills. In the qualitative responses, youth say they would have liked to learn more specific skills such as how to work with computers.
- About 21% said they would be working elsewhere if not in SYEP. This is a slightly higher percentage than in previous years. Even if it is true that employment prospects are improving for young people in Detroit, the SYEP program can continue to respond to local needs and promote that it helps prepare youth for a meaningful career.
- More than two thirds of participants reported that they were able to identify an adult mentor during SYEP. This is a positive finding and the program can continue to be intentional about training and supporting mentors to ensure that even more young people connect with a mentor in the future.
- A solid majority of youth report that adults talk to them about going to college and continuing their education, but less have adults that talk to them about planning for a career. This is a niche that the SYEP can fill.
- The majority of participants are still in high school, but about a quarter will be going to college in the Fall. Perhaps attention can be given to encouraging and supporting this group so that they don't just enroll in college, but successfully complete and earn a degree.
- Forty-five percent of respondents report having neither a checking account nor savings account, meaning that they are unbanked. This is slightly higher than in the past. If the program is using an alternative to checks, such as debit cards, some instruction on using the cards appropriately and adding an option for saving might be helpful in addition to general money management information.
- Although only 45% of respondents said they used the free bus pass, about a fifth used it exclusively—meaning they might not have had other reliable means of transportation.
- Very few participants reporting feeling unsafe getting to and from their SYEP work site. However, it might be helpful to provide a means of reporting any safety problems that do arise.
- For the first time the survey offered participants the opportunity to identify their sponsoring program, although some could not answer the question. If branding is an important goal or the Consortium wants to be able to examine specific program improvements, this identification can be made more explicit.

Recommendations

- 1) Continue to define and implement a quality summer employment experience.

 This might include: doing better assessments up front based on participants' abilities and career goals that can be used to inform job placement and training; requiring the assignment of an adult mentor, better coordination between programs and across summers if youth participate more than once.
- 2) Given that young people are earning money, some for the first time, build in money management instruction and incentives to save. If some work sites are already doing this well, consider sharing materials and best practices. Also build upon work being done in other places around financial education and savings incentives (i.e. Washington, DC and San Francisco).
- 3) For the organizations that follow-up with youth participants after the summer work experience, document links between work and school and build strong supports for academic achievement. All programs are busy in the summer, but perhaps after the employment experience ends, a coordinated approach to tracking academic achievement and supporting academic might be beneficial. At first, this might just mean sharing what is being done, but over time programs can begin to learn from one another and work to strengthen this area.

Honestly this program is already awesome however the children always complained about their checks not being on their cards.
However I prefer my check on paper
Honestly, a way you could make Detroit Summer Youth Employment Program better next year is by assigning more activities in fun things to do such as educational trips.
I believe that DSYEP is wonderful as it is. It allows young people to have the opportunity to have work experience in a field that they might consider
I believe we should have more activity instead of watering, we can do projects like building and painting. But we still can do watering too
I can continue to bring a positive attitude and be on time.
I can make the program better by coming back to work next year
I can talk to more people
I can work again
I can work harder
I can't, it was okay
I did not find not problem in my employment this summer
I didn't get my chase bank card or ID; these are my only cons
I didn't have problem
I didn't like the process of signing up, it was too long and very irritating. Next time it would be better if we got paid on a card
I do not have any suggestions
I don't feel that there is anything that needs to be different

I don't know won't live in Michigan I don't know won't live in Michigan I don't know if I'm coming back I don't' have any suggestions I feel as if this program is good the way it is. But, I would like to have stayed at Michigan State for a week. I feel like it was a great experience and it really helped my future. I feel like it was a great experience and it really helped my future. I feel like the Detroit Summer Youth Employment should allow its youth a lot more hours. I feel like this program don't need any improvements I feel that it was good and no change is needed. I feel that it was good and no change is needed. I feel that the job orientation was too long I feel that you guys should make more places to work and also have more employers I have no comments. I honestly feel that it's okay the way it is I like how it is now. I don't think any changes should be changed at the moment. I like it I like it, I don't think it really need to except we cant but anything from the store I like the program the way it is I like the program the way it is I like the program the way it was I personally am grateful for the opportunities that I was given in the program, yet I feel that there should be more employers for next year. I personally think that it was ok exactly how it was, I enjoyed the program I really believe its better this year and nothing is wrong with it I really enjoyed my time working with this program this summer I say there's really nothing to make better if fine the way it is. I still not exactly sure what the program does, so next year can you make it clear I think everything was already great. I think everything was already great. I think everything was fine. I think it was good already. I think it was good already. I think it was great I believe there no changes should be made I think it was fine this year I think it was fine this year	I don't have any suggestions	2

But, I would like to have stayed at Michigan State for a week. I feel like it was a great experience and it really helped my future. I feel like maybe workers should be paid at least $ 8.00 per hour. I feel like the Detroit Summer Youth Employment should allow its youth a lot more hours. I feel like this program don't need any improvements I feel that it was good and no change is needed. I feel that the job orientation was too long I feel that you guys should make more places to work and also have more employers I have no comments. I honestly feel that it's okay the way it is I like how it is now. I don't think any changes should be changed at the moment. I like it I like it, I don't think it really need to except we cant but anything from the store I like the program the way it is I personally am grateful for the opportunities that I was given in the program, yet I feel that there should be more employers for next year. I personally think that it was ok exactly how it was, I enjoyed the program I really believe its better this year and nothing is wrong with it I really enjoyed my time working with this program this summer I say there's really nothing to make better if fine the way it is. I still not exactly sure what the program does, so next year can you make it clear I think everything was already great. I think everything was great. But by off of being so restricted. I don't know if I'm coming back I don't have any suggestions I feel as if this program is good the way it is. But, I would like to have stayed at Michigan State for a week. I feel like it was a great experience and it really helped my future. I feel like maybe workers should be paid at least $ 8.00 per hour. I feel like the Detroit Summer Youth Employment should allow its youth a lot more hours. I feel like this program don't need any improvements I feel that it was good and no change is needed. 	I think it's fine

I think it's just fine. People can really benefit from this program.
I think that Detroit Summer Youth Employment Program should make sure that the employees have food so the employees and instructors won't have to come out their pockets to buy food.
I think that I would do the same thing I did this year for next year
I think that we should be able to dress more freely with our shoes and accessories
I think the program was great but you could possibly work on sending the money on time
I think they need another way of payment
I think they should find more jobs that teens would like to do.
I think we should be able to have shadow days at our job before we work there
I think you could make it better by raising our money (23.12 per hr)
and stop taking taxes out of our check
I thought the program was perfect for people that may not have ever held a job before. I thought it was great and I would not change anything about the program.
I want to be able to come back and I will have a real job
I was satisfied honestly
I will do better than I did this year
I will like to still have a job
I would like to do more work, through the end
I would like to learn more about being a business owner
I would probably choose an indoor job I do not like working outdoors anymore
ID's taken in better lighting
IDK
If the program lasted longer, it would have been more beneficial.
if we extended the maximum number of hours we can work.
In a few words, GYT could be better if the Chase cards actually worked or given out.
