

EDITORIAL NOTE

Small Group Research, Volume 22

We would like to thank the following ad hoc reviewers for their efforts:

Roger Brown
Naomi Farber
James Grant
Leopold Gruenfeld
Randy Magen

Joseph E. McGrath
Poppy McLeod
Paula Neidenthal
Michael Schober
Larry Smeltzer

While we have been very pleased with the quality of the manuscripts received during the past two years, we would very much like to increase the number of submissions. We welcome suggestions from our readers concerning organizations or areas of specialization that we may have failed to reach. We also welcome suggestions for possible special issues or special sections.

We are pleased to be running with minimal lag time. There is currently no publication backlog beyond the four months that Sage requires from the time we submit a complete issue manuscript and the distribution of the published issue. Our typical review time is two to three months. This makes the lag from submission to publication and distribution approximately six to seven months if no revisions are requested. In most cases, we have requested a single round of revisions, bringing the lag time to eight to nine months.
