

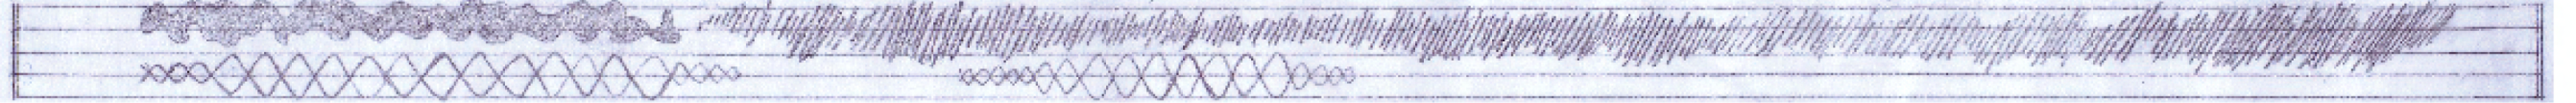

GRAPHIC NOTATION OF VULNERABILITY

AARON CLAUSEN

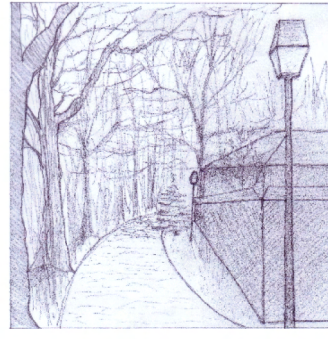

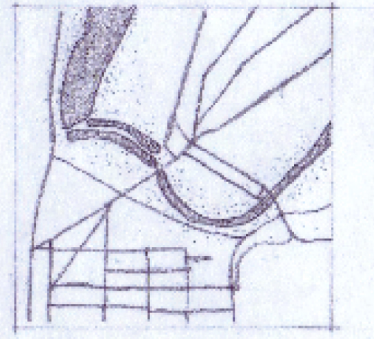

The project represents the various sensory experiences encountered while walking along the Huron River from the Medical Center to the Argo Dam. Using graphic notation, I documented and represented the sense of vulnerability as I moved along the river, specifically observing shadows, confinement and supervision—supervision that effectively prevents vulnerability from assault.

I chose graphic notation that was intended to mimic musical notation to illustrate the modulation of senses as one moves along the river, specifically the building and releasing of tension. I employed a five-line staff, using notation of vulnerability much like the musical symbols of crescendo and diminuendo to represent the modulation of the senses.

GRAPHIC NOTATION of VULNERABILITY
ON A WALK ALONG the HURON RIVER

I walked along the Huron River to identify moments of vulnerability paying close attention to confinement, supervision and SHADOW

Supervision
Shadow
XXXXX Confinement

