Greenhouse Gas Control

Greenhouse Gas Control

This course presents a review of strategies for the reduction of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions in power generation, transportation, and the built environment. Sources, discharges, and physical properties of GHGs are surveyed, and technologies for GHG elimination or sequestration are discussed. Policy options for GHG control are considered.

Infrastructure Systems Optimiz

Infrastructure Systems Optimization

This class is to prepare students with the systems-level approach to the analysis and design of civil infrastructure systems. The fundamental concepts associated with the course are taught through a series of examples drawn from the various aspects of civil infrastructure systems applications. The examples build upon each other to provide a comprehensive overview of practical approaches to goal-oriented problem formulation and solution while giving the student a fundamental understanding of principles that can be used to facilitate decision making. Optimization techniques that will be discussed in this class include linear programming formulations and solution algorithms, multi-objective optimization, integer optimization, network models, and nonlinear programming.

Financial Innovations for Green Growth: Environmental Markets, Sustainable Investment, and Financial Technology Entrepreneurship.

This course will review innovations in processes, investment mandates and financial basics of the key pillars of Environmental Finance across all asset classes and investment vehicles. It will examine how established practices, procedures and tools from within the mainstream financial market are being adapted to integrate ESG criteria, in the pursuit of financial performance goals from both an investor and corporate perspective. The course will further explore how new entrepreneurial ventures are starting to disrupt the environmental finance environment.

Electrical Engr & Computer Sci

Electrical Engineering And Computer Science (EECS)

IT IS CRITICAL THAT STUDENTS ATTEND CLASSES FROM THE BEGINNING OF THE TERM. EVEN THOUGH STUDENTS MAY BE REGISTERED OFFICIALLY FOR A COURSE, THE ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING AND COMPUTER SCIENCE DEPARTMENT MAY GIVE AWAY A STUDENT'S PLACE IN A CLASS IF THEY DO NOT ATTEND THE FIRST WEEK OF LECTURES AND LABS/DISCUSSIONS (AS APPROPRIATE) FOR ANY EECS COURSES.

AT THE SAME TIME, THE EECS DEPARTMENT IS NOT OBLIGATED TO WITHDRAW STUDENTS OFFICIALLY FROM THE COURSE, EVEN THOUGH THE STUDENT HAS BEEN INFORMED THAT HIS/HER PLACE IN A COURSE HAS BEEN TAKEN AWAY. STUDENTS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ACCURACY OF THEIR SCHEDULES AND MUST BE SURE THAT ALL DROPS ARE PROCESSED THROUGH THE REGISTRATION SYSTEM DURING THE NORMAL DROP/ADD PERIOD.

Urban Entrepreneurship

The Urban Entrepreneurship course is designed for students who want to learn how to make lasting improvements in urban quality-of-life through the creation of for-profit businesses. Urban communities can be vibrant, exciting, and highly productive places, but residents and visitors are often faced with an array of unique challenges.

Governments, foundations, and not-for-profit companies have long been associated with efforts to make improvements, but in spite of those efforts, significant urban needs persist. Students in Urban Entrepreneurship course will explore the creation of sustainable, scalable, for-profit companies that address the needs of urban communities.

Entrepreneurs have a long history of service to urban communities, and rapidly accelerating technology and knowledge in a variety of fields give rise to new business models for solving previously intractable problems.

IP Strategy

This class starts on September 2 for all students.

This 3.0 credit class meets with LAW 489 in Room 138 which is located in Hutchins Hall.

The course examines intellectual property strategies for startup ventures, including building barriers to entry for competitors and reducing the risk of infringement issues. Topics will include an overview of patent, copyright, trademark, and trade secret law as they relate to all stages of entrepreneurial ventures--from the invention stage, to entity formation and financing, through exit. The course will also address intellectual property procurement (e.g., patent prosecution), technology transfer, due diligence, as well as preparing for and avoiding litigation.

This course does not require students to have a technical background, although students should have an interest in launching or representing ventures based on technical innovation.

This class will meet in EECS 1005

Full Course Title: Launching an Idea: Getting to Go/No-Go

Are you interested in seeing how real ideas get launched and in learning the key questions that need to be asked and answered? Work together with real teams as they come back from the world's premier science and research accelerator program (I-Corps) to help them refine their ideas and determine their path forward. In doing so, you'll learn an actionable set of skills from one of Ann Arbor's best engineering and science entrepreneurs, Dr. Aaron Crumm.

and government funding, and more. The instructors of this course have converted their engineering PhDs into innovation careers in high tech businesses, founded start-ups, raised investment from private and government sectors, and held roles ranging from engineer to president/CEO. Introduction to Innovation Careers is designed to help students better identify and articulate their optimum career trajectories. Students in this course will learn a variety of critical thinking skills and analytical tools to help guide them in the modern world of rapidly evolving innovation careers.

Interpersonal Skills

Theories of leadership will be discussed and unpacked, with the intent of more fully understanding sources of leadership power and the positive and negative aspects of various leadership styles. At the interplay of these themes is the concept of the dynamic, optimized function of a high-performing team - the creation and maintenance of which lies at the heart of most business success. Characteristics of such teams, including visionary leadership, communication, and passion will be reviewed in detail. Vital interpersonal skill sets such as questioning, providing feedback, and mentoring will be defined and developed in terms of best available research and practices. Moving beyond the initial phase of theory and interpersonal awareness, the course will also require students to apply their developed understanding to various case studies, scenarios, and projects. While not focusing explicitly on business practices and entrepreneurial activities, the entire course will be grounded in this field and will rely heavily on tying in the real world experiences of students and instructor to maximize the future applicability of what is learned.

Math for Tech Founders

This course is designed to introduce non-business students to the essentials of "business math" as the "language" of business. It is taught using a blend of lectures and the case method of instruction. The course begins with understanding customer value and how companies generate revenue by selling, delivering, and getting paid for this value. Building on this, students learn how companies make money, starting with revenue, followed by variable costs, fixed costs, break even and operating profit. The students then learn about the role of supply chains in creating and delivering value, the working capital and fixed assets required to put a supply chain in place, and return on assets as one measure of business performance. As the students are introduced to the sources of capital used to buy assets, they learn about equity and debt, and putting these together with assets to create the balance sheet. They learn about return on equity as another measure of business performance, and the impact of the use of equity and debt, both positive and negative. By the end of the course, students are able to tie this all together as they learn about how businesses raise capital, the importance of cash and risk, and the impact they have on the value of a business. Students are not expected to perform advanced financial analysis (e.g., discounted cash flow or net present value), but through the cases and lectures they do learn how to read financial statements and to understand the basics of business performance and valuation.

Literature, Science & the Arts

IT IS CRITICAL THAT STUDENTS ATTEND CLASSES FROM THE BEGINNING OF THE TERM. EVEN THOUGH STUDENTS MAY BE REGISTERED OFFICIALLY FOR A COURSE, DEPARTMENTS MAY GIVE AWAY A STUDENT'S PLACE IN A CLASS IF THEY DO NOT ATTEND:

---THE FIRST MEETING OF BIOLOGY, CHEMISTRY, AND PHYSICS LABORATORIES;

---EITHER OF THE FIRST TWO MEETINGS OF ENGLISH COURSES;

---THE FIRST TWO MEETINGS OF HISTORY 396 AND 397;

---EITHER OF THE FIRST TWO MEETINGS OF ANY COURSE OFFERED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF ROMANCE LANGUAGES;

---THE FIRST TWO MEETINGS OF COURSES IN OTHER SUBJECTS.

AT THE SAME TIME, DEPARTMENTS ARE NOT OBLIGATED TO WITHDRAW STUDENTS OFFICIALLY FROM THE COURSE, EVEN THOUGH THE STUDENT HAS BEEN INFORMED THAT HIS/HER PLACE IN A COURSE HAS BEEN TAKEN AWAY. STUDENTS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ACCURACY OF THEIR SCHEDULES AND MUST BE SURE THAT ALL DROPS ARE PROCESSED THROUGH REGISTRATION SYSTEM DURING THE NORMAL DROP/ADD PERIOD.

History Department

History (HISTORY)

--IT IS CRITICAL THAT STUDENTS ATTEND CLASS FROM THE BEGINNING OF THE TERM. ALTHOUGH STUDENTS MAY BE OFFICIALLY REGISTERED FOR A COURSE, THE DEPARTMENT MAY DISENROLL ANY STUDENT NOT ATTENDING THE FIRST TWO COURSE MEETINGS.
 --DISCUSSION SECTIONS DO NOT MEET UNTIL AFTER FIRST LECTURE.
 --STUDENTS ARE ENCOURAGED TO USE THE WAITLIST FOR ANY CLOSED COURSE. STUDENTS SHOULD REGISTER ON THE WAITLIST ACCORDING TO PREFERRED SECTION AND ATTEND THE FIRST CLASS. UP TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS, OVERRIDES WILL BE GIVEN BY THE DEPARTMENT AS SPACE BECOMES AVAILABLE. STUDENTS ARE NOTIFIED AND GIVEN TWO DAYS TO USE THE OVERRIDE, AFTER WHICH THE SPOT MAY GO TO AN ALTERNATE STUDENT ON THE WAITLIST. ONCE CLASSES HAVE STARTED, STUDENTS (WAITLISTED OR NOT) MUST CONTACT THE INSTRUCTOR FOR AN OVERRIDE.

This lab is a CSP lab. CSP sections are scheduled for more hours per week than a routine section of the same course. Some of that time is devoted to workshop activities, e.g., problem solving, practice tests, review of assignments and instruction in learning skills. There is also provision for more individual instruction in the form of additional office hours, instructor conferences, appointments with a Course Assistant, etc.

Cog Neuro of Consciousness
The study of consciousness is considered a fundamental scientific and philosophical pursuit. How does information processing in the brain generate experience? How do we objectively capture what is, by definition, a subjective event? As philosopher Colin McGinn puts it, how do we get from the water of the brain to the wine of consciousness? I have recently started a Center for Consciousness Science at the UM Medical School to help address these very questions.
As an educational activity and the Center (and as a NGP faculty), I am conducting a combined reading/lecture course (NS-704) this upcoming semester on ?The Cognitive Neuroscience of Consciousness.?. The study of consciousness is sometimes decomposed into ?levels of consciousness? (awake vs. asleep vs. anesthetized vs. comatose) and ?states of consciousness? (assuming I am already conscious, why do I see a blue triangle rather than a red square?). We will explore both of these dimensions and likely have some visiting lecturers/discussants to help us along the way.
The subject of consciousness motivated many of us to choose the field of neuroscience. I hope you will join me next month as we explore a fascinating question that has scientific, philosophical, clinical, and even existential implications. Even if you don?t want to formally sign up for the course, you are welcomed to attend and participate.
What: NS704, The Cognitive Neuroscience of Consciousness
Who: Neuroscience and psychology students (and other interested people)
When: Fall semester, Wednesdays at Noon (pizza will be served!)
Where: Medical School, Med-Sci I, 7th floor conference room (#7433D)

Marketing and Social Media
Marketing & Social Media: Sara Billman (UMS director of marketing)

The Internet presents an array of low- to no-cost tools from email, websites and blogs to Facebook fanpages, Twitter feeds, and online survey tools that individuals can use to share their stories and promote their own career opportunities. Yet such democratization has also fragmented the mass media, in an era where public arts coverage is also dwindling. This course addresses both marketing theory and best practices that will allow enterprising individuals to create a professional virtual toolkit that showcases their strongest assets. Students will learn which self-marketing strategies serve what purpose and how to prioritize the development of various materials and resources, as well as develop a customized plan based on individual goals. Classes will include a look into the backend analytics of the various tools to gain a full understanding of how to assess success. The course will be led by veteran arts marketer Sara Billmann, who has worked with hundreds of different artists of all kinds for the past 19 years as marketing director for UMS. Coursework will include in-class activities and several short papers designed to help students apply their learning to their own professional goals. At course's end, participants will be on their way to developing a promotional tool, polished through peer and professional feedback.

The Recording Industry
The Recording Industry: Selling Your Music to the World. Taught by Jeremy Peters (director of Ghostly International and owner of Quite Scientific Records).

?How do I sell my music on iTunes? Do I need a commercial recording label? Can I release an album on my own? What rules and laws do I need to think about? How hard is it to get an album on Spotify?? Musicians of all stripes face these questions when considering how to release and promote the music they've created in audio or video format. This class will answer these questions (and more), focusing on the real-world application of entrepreneurial, legal, business, and artistic considerations required to promote and sell music digitally today. You'll learn basic music industry standards and the necessary legal considerations that come into play when releasing music online. We'll delve into the process of preparing recordings for release in digital formats, how to decide which service providers are most effective for your goals, and ultimately release your recordings online! You'll also learn about promoting your work and how to track your business efforts. Finally, we'll explore current trends and future directions in the music business. Active engagement and participation is vital to success in this hands-on, experiential class. Come prepared to participate and bring your recordings and videos!

Marketing and Social Media
Marketing & Social Media: Sara Billman (UMS director of marketing)

The Internet presents an array of low- to no-cost tools from email, websites and blogs to Facebook fanpages, Twitter feeds, and online survey tools that individuals can use to share their stories and promote their own career opportunities. Yet such democratization has also fragmented the mass media, in an era where public arts coverage is also dwindling. This course addresses both marketing theory and best practices that will allow enterprising individuals to create a professional virtual toolkit that showcases their strongest assets. Students will learn which self-marketing strategies serve what purpose and how to prioritize the development of various materials and resources, as well as develop a customized plan based on individual goals. Classes will include a look into the backend analytics of the various tools to gain a full understanding of how to assess success. The course will be led by veteran arts marketer Sara Billmann, who has worked with hundreds of different artists of all kinds for the past 19 years as marketing director for UMS. Coursework will include in-class activities and several short papers designed to help students apply their learning to their own professional goals. At course's end, participants will be on their way to developing a promotional tool, polished through peer and professional feedback.

Arts and the Environment

Do you ever wonder what a practitioner of the performing arts can do about climate change, endangered species, forest preservation, or clean water? This class will take on the question in depth, examining the ways that composers, dancers, performers and other artists have engaged with environmental issues, and the thinking behind different approaches. There will be a final creative project. Available to grads and upper-level undergrads

Musicolinguistics
This course builds on the age-old interest in understanding the connection between music and language. It does so from a heavily interdisciplinary perspective, exploring, for example, how music and language function in different cultural contexts, how they evolved, and how they allow us to think, express and be creative, and in the process, we will explore things as diverse as birdsongs and Beethoven symphonies, fractals and Neanderthal flutes, and grunge rhythms and the music of New Guinea. To help us ground our comparison of music and language, we will learn some linguistics too, within a framework known as generative linguistics, and we will see how this perspective suggests the intriguing possibility that music and language might actually be identical.

Theatre Pedagogy & Drama-in-Ed

In order to obtain a simple and truthful, honest performance we approach the craft of acting exploring two parallel tracks. 1. Reexamining the individual's approach to acting, to ensure that the acting process allows availability and does not initiate habitual patterns of tension. 2. Having an available body that allows and does not block the acting process. In short, you need body that is available to the acting process and an acting process that does not block the availability of the body.

The Atonement Project
meet together with RC 334.004

Artistic practice in prisons has occurred since the inception of prisons themselves, though popular thought tends not to connect the idea of the arts with that of criminal justice systems. This course surveys the history of performance in prisons through the examination of plays written by and about prisoners as well as narratives, which chronicle the process of creating theatre in prisons. More importantly, the course also requires all enrolled students to enter an adult prison once a week throughout the semester to lead a theatre workshop with prisoners. Students will be placed in pairs to facilitate workshops, and each workshop will hold a performance at the end of the semester. Students and prisoners together create social change through their performances, both by bringing two disparate communities (i.e. undergrads and prisoners) into meaningful interaction and also by using theatre to explore significant social issues.

Script Analysis

The class is based on Keith Johnstone's IMPRO System and IMPRO Storytelling. The techniques, exercises, formats and skills to be explored are derived from his work with Theatre Machine, and the implementation of Status Exercises, Fast-Food Stanislavsky, Life Games and Emotional Replay, among others, and turned into performance. Through structured improvisation, spontaneous creation, and utilizing the intuitive, uncensored responses from the participants, an emphasis is placed upon working with others toward clarity of expression and presentation. Developed emotionally, physically, intellectually and creatively, this artistic growth is cultivated in an atmosphere that is non-competitive, supportive and exhilarating, but challenging. Open to BFA performance & directing students, and BTA & InterArts students.

Meets with RCHUMS 282.001

In this four credit drama course students will explore major American plays of the 20th century through the process of text analysis through performance. We will work on plays by major writers such as Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, Lorraine Hansberry, Sam Shepard and Tony Kushner. For each play we will discuss dramaturgical background, script and character analysis and put scenes on their feet for constructive critique. Written assignments will center on a journal which will include a series of actor's explorations of motivations and actions. Students will also be responsible for writing critiques of two productions. The course culminates in a public performance of a cutting of a major play, most likely Tony Kushner's "Angels in America."

	Principles of Comedy
	This course will explore the principles of performing comedy, as experienced throughout the dramatic canon, investigating the work of Commedia, Moliere, Noel Coward, and David Lindsay-Abaire. The course will also explore improvisation, status work, and stand-up. We will ask ourselves, are there special considerations when playing comedy as opposed to straight drama? Is there such a thing as comic technique? If so, what is it? What are the technical demands of comic timing, rhythm, builds, and the ability to give and take focus? And are there ways in which we play comedy no differently than any other form of acting? We will also ask ourselves what makes a funny thing funny? Are there common threads through history? Are there universal comic elements that can be defined? We will pursue the course objectives through exercises, games, improvisations, discussions, readings, and group, solo and scene work.

	Documentary Theatre
	This seminar explores the political and social ramifications of documentary theatre in the U.S. from the 1990s to the present. We will spend the first half of the semester studying interview techniques and reading examples of documentary theatre by playwrights such as Anna Deavere Smith, Heather Raffo, and Moises Kaufman and the Tectonic Theatre Project. In the second half of the semester, the students will investigate a local community of their choosing and create an interview-based performance as a final project. The class will perform this play for an invited audience at the end of the semester.

	HAMLET, THE BEST AND MOST IMPORTANT PLAY EVER WRITTEN
	HAMLET contains the complete alphabet of human experience and excites global audiences more than 400 year after it was written. If what William Hazlitt wrote is true, that "It is WE who are Hamlet," then as actors and theatre practitioners, this play is essential to our understanding of theatre and life. In this class we will study and perform the play using newly adapted texts based on the work of Hamlet scholars, Charles Kelly and Dayna Plehn. We will create the Tragedy of Ophelia, The Tragedy of Horatio, The Tragedy of Claudius and The Tragedy of Gertrude in order to re-discover Hamlet.

Facilitating Dialogue
This is a short introductory course module in facilitating complex and difficult dialogic moments of engagement in the social, professional and institutional spheres of the public arena. Its purpose is to provide the possibility for actual engagement with tense social issues and phenomena bedeviling complex societies. It will briefly explore the historical and theoretical contexts, which give rise to sometimes painful and traumatic moments that filter in and color what may otherwise be perceived as simplistic conversations and interactions. It will introduce students?regardless of perceived color, gender, class, or ethnic identity categorization?to the necessity for transcending their subject locations. In order to facilitate, mediate, and engage in trans-formative moments of learning, dialogue, leadership and communal capacity building with due regard of difference and the respect of mutuality.

Great Depression

Since the 2008 financial crisis, developed countries have suffered high unemployment and slow growth. What are options for policymakers in this environment? This course will analyze central issues in macroeconomic policymaking through the lens of history. Students will apply analytical tools to understand the consequences of monetary, fiscal and financial market policy in the Great Depression, in Japan after 1990, and in the current Great Recession.

BA Program Evaluation

This course introduces students to the use and interpretation of multiple regression analysis and program evaluation. The goals of the class are to: 1) Train students to critically consume empirical research. We will teach you to read and understand technical, empirical studies and to judge whether they constitute a firm, evidentiary basis for policy. 2) Train students to thoughtfully produce their own empirical research. We will develop a core set of analytical tools that will allow you to conduct empirical research in a professional setting. While this course is fundamentally about teaching methods of quantitative analysis, it differs from other similar courses in that it makes a particular effort to embed the learning in real data and actual policy problems. Topics covered include education, health care, national security and international development. The course requires introductory statistics (hypothesis testing, t-statistics, confidence intervals) at the level of STATS 250, PUBPOL 529, EDUC 793 or the equivalent.

Improving Pub Health

In this course, students will examine and create innovative policy solutions to pressing and complex public health problems in the United States. After receiving an introduction to the public health system and public policymaking, students will build skills in policy design and analysis through a number of case studies. Students will assess current public health problems, and propose and assess innovative policy solutions using policy analysis frameworks. The course emphasizes content knowledge of public health issues and policies, along with critical thinking, creativity and innovation, policy analysis skills, and written and verbal communication.

This course examines the interaction of politics and policymaking at the state level. It examines issues such as the role of lobbyists, the impact of campaign and election reforms, and the relationship between state governments and other levels of government.

Running, Serving and Leading

This course will give students a practical understanding of what it takes to run for office, serve as an officeholder, and what leadership amongst leaders means. It takes leadership to change, impact, create and implement policy. While people take on many different roles in policy formation, holding office is the surest way to make your voice heard, to provoke thoughtful debate and ultimately to enact important policy. Topics to be discussed include, but are not limited to, the decision to run, the campaign for office, holding office, committees, caucuses, decision-making, term-limits, gerrymandering, policy v politics, caucus leadership, balance of power with executive branch, coalition-building, negotiation, messaging, and gender issues.

Domestic Politics

This section of 510 aims to help you better understand policy analysis and the political environment within a context of American domestic politics at the national level.

Policy analysis is a discipline that brings systematic thinking and social scientific evidence to bear on substantive problems. The premise of this course is that policymakers seldom value that analysis as much as we do.

Many are skeptical about what social science can contribute to solving public problems, often rightly so. Others see policy analysis as material to be deployed selectively and strategically in political battles fought on other terms. In today's highly partisan, often hyperbolic politics, bringing reason and evidence to bear on public problems is more challenging than ever.

By the end of the course, you will understand the political environment in which policy specialists operate: the participants who shape policy within particular domains; the ways in which they perceive problems and solutions; the information, interests, and ideologies likely to govern their actions; the strategies they use; and the institutional arrangements and processes that shape their behavior and constrain their decisions. A final but important purpose of the course is to help you work on your writing and, to a lesser extent, your oral communication skills.

Comparative Politics

This section of 510 focuses on political strategy and policy processes in comparative perspective. Students will learn how national and regional contexts shape governing institutions, political cultures, stakeholders and strategies, and develop tools to inform and influence policymaking given these differences. Overall, the course trains students:

To analyze critically and in-depth the political dimensions of pressing policy issues; To engage in issue advocacy?from grassroots mobilization to lobbying?across national contexts; To develop a nuanced understanding of different?including opposing?interests in the policy process; To improve written and oral communication skills; To work in teams; And to understand the policymaking environments of countries in Europe, Asia, and Africa, in comparative perspective with the United States.

The course also provides students an opportunity to learn about several substantive issues currently on the international agenda.

There is no policy without victory. More precisely, well-planned and well-executed political campaigns win elections and make governing possible. Therefore, an understanding of government must first be grounded in an understanding of campaigns and elections. This course will introduce you to the art and science of political campaigning. Topics to be covered will include crafting a message, scheduling and time management, research, issues, polling, speeches, debates, working with the press, identifying, differentiating and targeting voters, coalitions and interest groups, budgeting and fundraising, field organization, crisis management, the political environment, and Get Out The Vote efforts.

Facilitating Dialogue This is a short introductory course module in facilitating complex and difficult dialogic moments of engagement in the social, professional and institutional spheres of the public arena. Its purpose is to provide the possibility for actual engagement with tense social issues and phenomena bedeviling complex societies. It will briefly explore the historical and theoretical contexts, which give rise to sometimes painful and traumatic moments that filter in and color what may otherwise be perceived as simplistic conversations and interactions. It will introduce students?regardless of perceived color, gender, class, or ethnic identity categorization?to the necessity for transcending their subject locations. In order to facilitate, mediate, and engage in trans-formative moments of learning, dialogue, leadership and communal capacity building with due regard of difference and the respect of mutuality.
