Online Exhibit – Popularization of Democracy in Post-War Japan

This exhibit showcases the Proclamation of Human Rights Slides (Jinken Sengen Gento slides, 人權宣言幻燈片) produced by the Constitution Popularization Society (Kenpō Fukyukai, 宪法普及会) to promote the spirit of peace, human rights, and democracy as embedded in the new Constitution of Japan which was enacted on May 3, 1947.

The Jinken Sengen Gento slideshow illustrates how the spirit of the new Constitution was born through historical struggles for the realization of justice and universal human rights. This slideshow aimed to educate people about the trials and tribulations of humankind as they strove for “the preservation of peace, and the banishment of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance for all time from the earth”, as stated in the Preamble of the Constitution.

IIIF protocol to be added in December, 2017 (plan)

E-book with 3D image and embedded database by Michigan Publishing
Partners

The IIIF (International Image Interoperability Framework) is foundational to the Digital Tools for Manuscript Study project. The University of Toronto relies on the well-crafted APIs and international community support of IIIF to create modular, interoperable tools which support the work of manuscript scholars.

Omeka is a used widely platform in digital humanities and library communities with a strong and responsive developer community. Easy to use, well-documented, and supported by a knowledgeable and responsive development community, Omeka supports features that are crucial to our use cases: user communities and usability; contributor recognition; in-depth analytical and collecting work; and the creation of scholarly narratives based on closely-read data collections.

Mirador is an IIIF-compliant viewer developed by Stanford and Harvard to be configurable, extensible and easy-to-integrate. Our hope is to leverage Mirador's well-designed manuscript viewing experience and thriving and open development community to create plugins which work with Omeka but are not wholly reliant on its architecture.
OMEKA IIIF protocol project kicked off by making a cooperative effort with the Toronto University Library IT team.

Toronto IIIF plug-in + Michigan offers a large file (Mushi no utaawase scroll) for test.
