Make the thing

The redesigned site will:

- Invite and connect with our users
- Enable user engagement with the full breadth of resources that our library offers
- Adhere to current and emerging standards for accessibility and user experience
- Align with efforts to transform physical spaces
Why we developed our DEIA Statement

Espouse and elevate principles of diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility in our work

Why:

● Received constructive criticism about lack of diversity in teams
● Accessibility, user research, inclusive language, etc., was built into the project from the beginning
● Attention to committee formation and approaches was mixed
Considerations

Document and share our general approach to elevating DEIA principles and ensure they inform and accompany all stages of a project.

Questions we asked ourselves:

- How should we engage with the criticism we received?
- Not all diversity is visible, but is this an adequate response?
- How do we avoid tokenism?
- How do we adjust within existing limitations?
So we created a Website Redesign Project: DEIA Statement

DEIA Statement - Outline

- Statement Purpose
- Team Structure and Engagement
  - Team Norms and Project Charter
  - Diversity of Membership
  - Inclusive Communication: Internal Focus
- User-Focused Methods and Practices
  - User Research and Usability Testing
  - Persona Development
  - Accessibility for Everyone
  - Inclusive Content
  - Equitable Access
- Resources
Sharing the DEIA Statement

Seek out expertise, be open to feedback, and strive for transparency

What we did:

- Sought feedback from Diversity and Inclusion Specialist and Accessibility Specialist
- Shared with Library Diversity Council and Digital Accessibility Team
- Held Brown Bag in May 2019
Being a model

Practice intentionality in elevating DEIA principles when creating teams and doing project work

Who’s adapting the approach in our library:

- Deans’ Office
- Library Service Design Program
Thank you!

- What do you think?
- Could other types of teams and other libraries document DEIA considerations for the approach to and substance of their work?
- Is anything missing?
