Center for Chinese Studies

General Info

Center Accomplishments

Briefly highlight your center's most significant accomplishments during AY 2011-2012. (250 words or less)

The Center for Chinese Studies concluded its three semester-long celebration of its 50th anniversary with an international conference on the State of the Chinese State. The conference brought together alumni, faculty, students, and community supporters. It included a public lecture by Professor Kenneth Lieberthal on US-China Relations, a day-long academic conference, and an alumni weekend with art, dance, and music performances. There were many other events in the year that marked this occasion in various ways. Some are mentioned below in the programming section. CCS also was an active participant in the recruitment of a new assistant professor in the Department of Economics/FASAC(China). Jing Cai, a doctoral candidate at the University of California, Berkeley accepted our offer and will join us in the fall of 2012. CCS and related LSA departments have successfully searched for all but one open FASAC(China) positions. There is one outstanding position in ALC and it is expected that a search will begin next year. CCS inaugurated an annual thematic conference with the 50th anniversary conference. The executive committee awarded three faculty members funding to organize the next three annual conferences. AY2012-13 "Feminist Sinologies" organized by David Porter and Wang Zheng; AY2013-14 "Socialist Culture in China Reconsidered" organized by Xiaobing Tang; AY2014-15 "The Politics of Bureaucratic Structure and Restructuring" organized by Yuen Yuen Ang. CCS also revived an interdisciplinary workshop for graduate students. Graduate students were given monthly opportunities to present their research to an interdisciplinary audience.

Goals

Please indicate your center's goals for the upcoming 2012-2013 academic year. (250 words or less)

Our goals for the next academic year include: 1. Continue to maintain our excellence. Provide strong support for faculty and student research. 2. Be an active participant in the reorganization of the International Institute. Work with the other East Asian Centers to share staffing and maximize efficiency while maintaining center autonomy and identity. 3. Actively participate in any FASAC(China) searches. 4. Run strong programming, including public lectures, brown bag lectures, research seminars, and film series.

Development

Please provide a summary of your center's development efforts during AY 2011-2012 and any resulting development opportunities including significant private donations. (250 words or less)

The CCS Director continues to work with central and LSA development on development opportunities. The Center Director met with an interested alum in June 2012 to discuss future plans for support of CCS student fellowships. The Center Director also worked with central development to craft a letter to a donor in Hong Kong who is also interested in providing resources for student fellowships.

Committees

Please list the names of any committees that provide direction and oversight to your center. Include the names, titles, and terms of each committee's members.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Please feel free to share any notable contributions your center made to course support during AY 2011-2012.

Please see additional courses... and, the following comments: Chinese Language Pedagogy is a new course supported by CCS Seed Grants. Additionally, 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th year core classes and heritage track classes were supported by CCS funds to enrich cultural activities for about 350 students in the Chinese Language Program in the past academic year. A related extension of the ARTDES course supported by CCS funds also reached 200 undergraduates enrolled in UROP, Living Arts, Michigan Research Community, and Global Scholars programs.

Events

Please provide the information below for events coordinated by your center during AY 2011-2012. Please do NOT include K-14 Outreach activities. There is a separate outreach section. If the question does not apply, simply answer N/A.

Briefly highlight up to five of your center's most successful events during AY 2011-2012. (300 words or less)

CCS 50th Anniversary: Established in 1961, CCS celebrated its 50th anniversary during fall 2011. Events included a scholarly conference in honor of Kenneth Lieberthal's distinguished career and many years of service to the University of Michigan. Several of the participants remarked that it was the "best conference they had ever attended." Activities around the conference included a first-ever CCS alumni reunion, a dinner and gallery tour at UMMA, as well as a reception and public lecture by Dr. Lieberthal at the Ross School of Business. Additionally, CCS held public lectures on contemporary Chinese woodblock printmaking as part of a major exhibit at UMMA that the China Center co-sponsored, and a public presentation by Mara Hvistendahl on sex ratio imbalance in Asia, which was co-sponsored by other centers in IL. CCS also held a film event at the Michigan Theater that was attended by 300-400 people. A CCS Kite Festival to highlight the center's 50 years of academic achievement was held in the Arboretum and drew over 1,500 people from the community at large.

Please feel free to share anything noteworthy related to your center's events during AY 2011-2012.

The China Center's 50th anniversary provided an opportunity to raise the center's public profile and highlight our many academic and outreach activities to a broader campus and community audience. Promotional materials were expanded, including an historical insert to the annual CCS newsletter. U-M News and Information Services was engaged to assist in the creation of video interviews with the CCS director and CCS alumni Damien Ma that were aired on the Record On-line, as well as an interview with Ken Lieberthal. Promotional spots on Michigan Radio informed of CCS major public lectures and the kite festival. The kite festival allowed for cross-campus collaborations and engaged undergraduates in an international cultural event.

K-14 Outreach

Please provide the information below for K-14 outreach events coordinated by your center during AY 2011- 2012. These could be events your center hosted for teachers on U-M's campus or a culture day, activity, etc. your center led at a local school.

Please do NOT include events part of your center's regular programming that may have been interesting to educators but were not planned specifically for them. If the question does not apply, simply answer N/A.

New Millennium Kite Festival (50th Anniversary), Workshops, and Artist Residency The program's goals were to highlight the modern face of a traditional cultural art form, build an east-west collaboration, and to increase collaborations within the university on multiple campuses through faculty-student engagement and community involvement. Activities included an artist residency and faculty exchange with Chinese kite master and Art & Design faculty; 15 workshops on kite making and wind energy involving students over 3 campuses (UM Flint, UM Ann Arbor, EMU) along with community services organizations and public schools. The largest single gathering was in the Nichols Arboretum for a kite flying competition followed by a kite exhibition on view at U-M Hospital, Gifts of Art program. Audience 1500+ Co-sponsored by the Office of the President along with 18 university units and community organizations and received wide university coverage. Film, media coverage, and blogs about the events can be found at: http://mblog.lib.umich.edu/CCS/archives/50th_anniversary/index.html Lesson plans and educational resources. Outreach High School Project Facilitating a collaborative outreach project linking U-M China Data Center (CDC) with Pioneer High School to engage high school students in learning about the face of China today through a digital data platform. The project has been folded into a major district wide-initiative that will position Pioneer as a magnet school for world language and international studies. CDC will stretch the parameters and use this model as a platform for leadership training nationally and to build a broader exchange with schools from China—while concurrently developing a web site for information sharing and multi-party involvement. (CDC's content is based on China Explorer--demography, economy, environment, religion and geography).
