Finding Funding for Humanities Research

Questions that this presentation will answer:

1) What is the difference between internal funding and sponsored research?
2) Where can I find internal funding for my research project?
3) Where can I find sponsored funding for my research project?
4) How do I initiate the process of applying for internal or sponsored funding for my research project?
5) What are some basic tips for writing a good grant proposal?
Where can I find internal funding for my humanities project?

1) Internal funding for humanities scholarship flows mostly through the College of LSA.

2) Links to the LSA Gateway do not function in Microsoft applications. To gain access to these resources, please manually access the LSA Gateway and follow the specified path.

3) University restrictions on travel and events due to COVID-19 apply to all University and LSA programs.
Internal Funding: Key Terms

1) UMOR = The University of Michigan Office of Research
2) PI = Principal Investigator
3) Humanities Collaboratory = The Humanities Collaboratory gives singularly generous grants to support innovative and ambitious forms of humanities scholarship.
4) FGA Program = The Faculty Grants and Awards Program is available through the LSA Dean’s Office and can provide funding support for research, scholarship, and creative activities.
5) Matching Funds = Funds contributed by a PI/department to a project may be “matched” through the College of LSA.
6) The LSA Gateway = A website with links to internal LSA resources. This website can be found at: https://gateway.lsa.umich.edu/

Sponsored Research at U-M

Where can I find sponsored research funding for my project?
What is a sponsor?

A sponsor is the company, entity, agency, or other party who designs and announces the research, typically funds the research, but may not actually conduct it. Research projects are typically funded by government (federal, state, local, or foreign) or private (industry, corporate, non-profit, or foundation) sponsors.
The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH)

https://www.neh.gov/grants

The NEH is a major funder of humanities research.

How do you get your proposal to a sponsor?

Step 1: Identify a sponsor and work with your department Research Administrator (RA) to get started.

You can find your RA through this website:

https://orsp.umich.edu/develop-proposal/find-research-administrator-blue-pages

Step 2: Submit your proposal as part of a Proposal Approval Form (PAF) in the U-M eResearch Proposal Management System (eRPM).

The Proposal Approval Form (PAF) can be found on eRPM. Your RA will know how to help with this.

https://eresearch.umich.edu/

Step 3: The PAF will route through various departments and offices for approvals before it goes to the U-M Office of Research and Sponsored Projects (ORSP) for Final Review.

You need approvals from your department, the departments of any of your collaborators, and the LSA Dean’s Office.

Step 4: When all of the approvals are obtained, route the PAF to ORSP for review and final approval.

It's a good idea to get this in as early as possible for the most thorough review from ORSP. If it's too late, it may be at risk to not get to the sponsor on time.

https://orsp.umich.edu/route-submit-proposal/proposal-submission-deadline-policy

Step 5: ORSP is the signing official for the university, and will typically submit the proposal to the sponsor on your behalf.
Grantwriting Tips

What are some basic tips for writing a good grant proposal?
Grantwriting Tips

1. Read and re-read the application guidelines and FAQs. Make sure you use proper headers and that you understand the review criteria.
2. Discuss suggested research ideas with your Program Officer, Department Chair, mentors, or faculty who have been successful with securing funding in the past.
3. Tips for talking to a program officer:
   • If you want to set up a call with your program officer, have your questions and/or summary of your project ready to go before the call. (If possible, send the summary to the program officer a few days in advance.)
   • General Questions can be sent via email.
4. Take advantage of resources offered on a sponsor’s website. These may include things like sample application narratives and budget templates.
5. Review the application deadlines, including internal deadlines, carefully. Internal deadlines will be earlier than the sponsor deadlines.

Research Impact & Funding Opportunities

What does impact have to do with it?
What does “research impact” mean to you?
No single definition!

“The measurement of research impact is a contested research and political agenda that poses a complex academic question.”

No single definition!

- Only 23% of articles explicitly defined ‘research impact’
- 76% of those definitions came from external agencies (e.g., funding bodies)
Source:
Not something that happens to you, but a story you create.
Finding the right funding opportunity

“Designed to make outstanding humanities books available to a wide audience” (NEH ODH Fellowships Open Book Program)

“Supports digital projects throughout their lifecycles” (NEH ODH Digital Humanities Advancement Grants)

“Experiment with blended or online learning in the humanities” or “Encourage the flow of knowledge from universities and institutes into their communities and from their communities into their institutions” (Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Programs in Higher Learning)
Pitching your work to the funder

As always:

● Read the guidelines!
● Look at examples of successful narratives on the funder website
● Seek feedback from the appropriate program officer early (look for deadlines)
Pitching your work to the funder

- Who is evaluating you?
- What type of impact do they want to see?
- What outputs will demonstrate your project made this impact?
- What are the criteria by which these outputs will be evaluated?
- What metrics or indicators are appropriate evidence to show that your outputs meet or exceed the criteria?
Reporting out

- If you are awarded a grant, be sure to capture this on your CV (date, funder, amount, role)
- If the grant leads to a publication, a data set, and exhibit or similar, think about the links among all of these--can you and others connect the breadcrumbs?
- Register your ORCID and fill out your profile. This can help bring publications, data, grants awarded, etc. together
