There is one last measure that we would like you to take yourself and mail into our office. Many scientists now believe that body size (in addition to body weight) is important in understanding the causes of high blood pressure and heart disease. The measurement of the waist and hips gives a sense of body size. This information is very important to this study.

This envelope contains a tape measure, instructions for taking the measurement, and a stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing the information back to us. To express our thanks for all of your help we have a very small token of appreciation for you in the envelope.

This ends the interview. Thank you very much for your time and help.
