

Animal Liberation Front: Fanaticism or Social Justice?

Peter Young, an American animal rights activist, was indicted for his role in releasing nearly 10,000 mink from fur farms. He was in hiding before being arrested and sentenced to 2 years imprisonment.

Come hear about his experiences moving from mainstream activism to nighttime saboteur, and why one man risked it all to save animals.

Date: March 11, 2009

Time: 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Location: Michigan Union, Pond Room

Co-sponsored by the Center for American Progress-Campus Progress, and the following:

