

open.michigan

Unless otherwise noted, the content of this course material is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution - Non-Commercial - Share Alike 3.0 License.

<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/3.0/>

Copyright © 2008, Annemarie Sullivan Palincsar.

You assume all responsibility for use and potential liability associated with any use of the material. Material contains copyrighted content, used in accordance with U.S. law. Copyright holders of content included in this material should contact open.michigan@umich.edu with any questions, corrections, or clarifications regarding the use of content. The Regents of the University of Michigan do not license the use of third party content posted to this site unless such a license is specifically granted in connection with particular content. Users of content are responsible for their compliance with applicable law. Mention of specific products in this material solely represents the opinion of the speaker and does not represent an endorsement by the University of Michigan. For more information about how to cite these materials visit <http://michigan.educommons.net/about/terms-of-use>.

Any medical information in this material is intended to inform and educate and is not a tool for self-diagnosis or a replacement for medical evaluation, advice, diagnosis or treatment by a healthcare professional. You should speak to your physician or make an appointment to be seen if you have questions or concerns about this information or your medical condition. Viewer discretion is advised: Material may contain medical images that may be disturbing to some viewers.

As you read Fountas and Pinnell this week, we are going to try something different. Approach the reading of this book as a professional resource. As you read, insert “sticky notes” in places in the book that you think you will want to return to when you are a teacher and are planning and enacting language arts instruction. On the sticky note, write the reason you would refer back to this part of the book. The part could be a table, a figure, a paragraph, or page....

Use all ten of the sticky notes you have been given.

Please bring your book – with its sticky notes – with you to class next week.