Student Leadership Luncheon
Welcome
Michigan is a very challenging institution...but it is also an institution characterized by an extraordinary diversity of opportunities. The students we honor this afternoon have not only met these academic challenges, but they have excelled as well in a broad range of extracurricular activities...the performing arts, athletics, student organizations, leadership. Our pleasure and pride thus is not only for your individual achievements, but as well for your collective role in reflecting and sustaining the values and goals upon which the University of Michigan is based.

A couple of curses of the scientist...
...tend to be futurists
...prefer strategy to tactics
Past three years of activity: strategic planning
Classic approach
1. Mission, goals, values, priorities
2. Environmental scanning
3. Operational objectives
4. Strategic actions
5. Tactical implementation
6. Evaluation and assessment
Another way to look at this: a business plan
• What is our product?
• Who is our competition?
• What is our market niche?
• What are our constraints?
• What do we need to accomplish our goals?
Example: T-Shirt Slogans
“To become the best public university in America”
“To become the best university in America”
“To win a national championship in a revenue sport”
Example: a single word “excellence”
“learning” “caring”
“LEADERSHIP”

Challenges
Just think of the challenges which cry out for attention
• the plight of our cities, the development of an underclass
  polarization of American society
• greenhouse effect and global change
• international competition
  Pacific Rim or Europe 1992
• health care: cancer, heart disease, AIDS
• new frontiers: outer space or spaceship Earth
But the greatest need of all is for leadership and this is the University of Michigan’s great contribution to America...
...through its teaching, research, and service
...through its graduates and their achievements
Indeed, leadership is both our heritage and our destiny!
Leadership

Examples of how we are trying to achieve leadership today:

- Of course, Michigan Wolverines (Rose Bowl and NCAA)
- Research and scholarship (cystic fibrosis)
- Academic programs
  - Humanities
    - Humanities Institute
  - Social Sciences
    - ISR
    - Education
    - Social Work
  - Professional Schools
    - Law
    - Business
    - Engineering
  - Health Sciences
  - Performing arts

But what about our response to the themes of change:

...pluralism
...globalization
...knowledge?

1) The Michigan Mandate
   Making UM the model of a multicultural community by learning to link diversity with unity

2) International Activities
   Current strengths in Asia and Europe
   Commitment to Latin America and Africa (oh, yes,...even Washington)

3) “The Electronic University”

Re-Inventing the University

But we have an even more ambitious mission of leadership:

To re-invent the university for the 21st Century

The winds of change are blowing... stirring the cauldron of higher education to create a new model of the university for the future.

Hence, is it not appropriate to question whether our present concept of the research university, developed largely to serve a homogeneous, domestic, industrial society...must also evolve rapidly if we are to serve the highly pluralistic, knowledge-intensive, world nation that will be America of the 21st Century.

Who will determine the new paradigm for the research university in America?
Who will provide the leadership?
Why not the University of Michigan?

After all, in a very real sense, it was our University that developed the paradigm of the public university capable of responding to the needs of a rapidly changing America of the 19th century...
as American expanded to the frontier...
as it evolved through the industrial revolution...
as it absorbed wave after wave of immigrants
a paradigm that still dominates higher education today.
In a sense, we have been throughout our history the flagship of public higher education in America.
In a very real sense, it was the University of Michigan which invented the University of the 20th Century.
Perhaps it is time that we once again played that role...
re-inventing the nature of the university once again...
...a university capable of educating the citizens and serving the society of not the 20th, but rather the 21st Century.
Let’s do it again, as America evolves into a highly pluralistic, knowledge-intensive world nation of the 21st Century!

Key Theme: Leadership
UM has always been a leader...
...really invented the American university
UM has always produced leaders
Observation 1: America is changing very rapidly
• multicultural–pluralism
• globalization
• age of knowledge
Observation 2: These changes will require changes in university if it is to remain relevant Observation 3: Situation is very similar to 19th Century when UM invented 20th Century university Mission: Why not assume the mantle of leadership once again...
...Why not reinvent the University of the 21st Century?
Re-Inventing the University

A Heritage of Leadership

After all, in a very real sense, it was our University that developed the paradigm of the public university capable of responding to the needs of a rapidly changing America of the 19th century... a paradigm that still dominates higher education today. In a sense, we have been throughout our history the flagship of public higher education in America.

I believe that today our University is once again in an excellent position to assume a role of leadership in higher education... to develop a new model of what the research university must become to serve 21st Century America...

Several characteristics of the University suggest this role of leadership:

1. Michigan's Heritage of Leadership

   Although Michigan was not the first of the state universities, it was the first to free itself of sectarian control and become a true public institution, governed by the people of the state.

   So too, the organic act establishing the Michigan in 1837 was regarded as "the most advanced and effective plan for a state university, a model for all the state institutions of higher learning which were established subsequently."

   From its founding, Michigan was identified with the most progressive forces in American higher education...

   First to blend the classical curriculum with the German approach stressing faculty involvement in research and dedicated to the preparation of future scholars.

   First university in the West to pioneer in professional education, starting the Medical School in 1850, the Law School in 1859, and engineering courses in 1854

   Among the first to introduce instruction in zoology and botony, modern languages, modern history, American literature, pharmacy, dentistry, speech, journalism, teacher education, forestry, bacteriology, naval architecture, aeronautical engineering, computer engineering...and even in my own field, nuclear engineering (with the associated Michigan Memorial Phoenix Project)

   Beyond tradition, however, there are other characteristics of our University today which position us well for this role of leadership.

2. Reputation as the flagship of public higher education

   A large, comprehensive, public, research university

   A serious commitment to scholarship

   Unusual breadth, rich diversity of academic disciplines, professional schools, social and cultural activities...

   ...our intellectual pluralism...

   Unusual degree of participation of faculty and students in University decisions

   Indeed, throughout its history, Michigan has been known for a spirit of democracy and tolerance among its students and faculty.
Harper's Weekly (1860):
"The most striking feature of the University is the broad and liberal spirit in which it does its work."

3. People
A faculty of great intellectual strength and unusual breadth
Student body of quality unsurpassed by any public institution
And, of course, that marvelous army of maize and blue alumni...over 300,000 strong...indeed, one of every 1,000 Americans...with a deep commitment to this institution.

4. Resources
While it is true that state support has not been strong in recent years, we nevertheless benefit from an unusually broad and balanced base of support from both the public and private sectors.

5. Ability to control our own destiny
Finally, we must never underestimate the importance of the fact that the University was created by the State Constitution itself...which establishes our Board of Regents as a coordinate branch of state government, with authority over the University exceeding that of the legislature, governor, and judiciary.
In a sense, we are almost unique among public institutions in having the ability to control our own destiny...
It is this rich set of characteristics that could well position the University to assume once again the leadership role it played in the 19th century by developing the new model for higher education appropriate for the needs of our state and nation in the 21st Century.

Leadership Provided by Our People
And if there is single common theme that seems to characterize the lifes of Michigan graduates, it is the theme of leadership...
As a Michigan graduate, as a leader, you will face a future of great challenge and responsibility...but it will also be a future of great opportunity and excitement.
As I noted earlier, you are an extraordinarily talented group of individuals...
It is likely that regardless of what happens during your college education, you will go on to become leaders of our society...
Hence, we believe it important that you prepare for this life of leadership now by taking advantage of all that this University has to offer.
John Gardner suggests some of the key themes:
1. A commitment to the fulfillment of human possibilities.
The release of human potential is and must always be a central value.
Serious and sustained attention to the special problems of justice to historically deprived groups is essential.
2. Creating a sense of community
Shared values and goals are the chief resources leaders can count on in motivating people--the task grows difficult--eventually impossible--as shared values disintegrate.
You should strive to participate in and experience a sense of community on this campus.
3. Renewal Leaders have to be capable of self renewal, and capable of helping in the renewal of the systems over which they preside.

4. Hope

Human beings are creatures who cheerfully act against the odds if they believe strongly enough, who reach for the unreachable stars and dream of impossible victories.

We must help young, potential leaders to value and to understand this side of our nature.

5. Discipline of the Mind

The central task of a university, a task which separates it from all other social institutions, is the creation of an environment where the quality of mind and of its performance is always the central concern.

The spirit most likely to develop leaders is a disciplined use of reason, enlivened by daring and the courage to experience, and tempered by respect for what we can learn from others.

6. Acceptance of Responsibility...

From the earliest moments in our long history, the UM has been known for a spirit of democracy and tolerance among its students and faculty. Over a century ago, Harpers Weekly noted: "The most striking feature of the University of Michigan is the broad and liberal spirit in which it does its work."

Student activism and involvement have always been an important part of the learning process at Michigan. Yet, while it is of paramount importance that we protect the fundamental freedom of students and faculty to explore new ideas and concepts, to state their beliefs and values, no matter how far they may be from mainstream thought...

...it is also essential to recognize that without the acceptance of responsibility, freedom is meaningless.

Indeed, true leadership consists not of simply protesting the existence of a problem...but rather consists of doing something positive about it.

In a very real sense, I hope that you will make a positive commitment to address the challenges before our society and not be content simply with complaining...

Theodore Roosevelt

"It is not the critic who counts, nor those who point out how the strong stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done better."

"The credit belongs to those who are actually in the arena; whose faces are marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strive valiantly; who err and come up short again and again; who know the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spend themselves in the worthy cause; who, at the best, know in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who, at the worst, if they fail, at least fail while daring greatly, so that their place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory or defeat."

You Role as a Lifetime Member of the Michigan Family

A university achieves leadership...greatness...
...through its people...
...through their talents and abilities,
...through their involvement and commitment.

The Michigan family extends far beyond those on our campus for the moment, our students, faculty, and staff
It includes that army of maize and blue, our 340,000 alumni, one of every thousand Americans!

Indeed, you have been...
...and will continue to be even more...
...the most critical factor in achieving and sustaining
the greatness of your University.

For that reason, this evening I would like to take this opportunity to issue a request...
...‘a call to arms’
to activate and energize you as our alumni and friends

A Call to Arms
We call for your
• your commitment
• your involvement
• and, most of all, your loyalty to your university, the University of Michigan.

A call for help...
1) Of course we need your financial support which provides our capacity of excellence
   --while it provides you with an opportunity to have great impact not just on your university, but through your university, on this nation and the world.

2) We also seek your influence
   Michigan produces leaders... and many of you are in positions of influence in the public or private sector and capable of helping your university

3) Your help in telling the Michigan story to the nation
   We are among the most visible universities in America
   (CBS Morning News, Steve Fisher, activism)
   ...let your Michigan pride show a bit!

4) Help us make new friends and enlist new supporters!
5) And most of all, become involved...
   ...providing to our students a sense of the potential of a Michigan education
   ...providing to our faculty and staff
   encouragement and support

In a very real sense, you as alumni and friends play the key role in passing the torch... in passing from one generation to the next the Michigan traditions of excellence and leadership which we all cherish so deeply

Concluding Remarks
You know, Michigan is really a very special place....
It is one of only a handful of universities capable of truly changing not only higher education,
but the nation and the world.

A personal note here:
It was just about 20 years ago that Anne and I left the warmth and sunshine of Pasadena to come to Michigan.

We did so, in part, because Michigan had what was clearly the best department in the world in my particular field of interest, nuclear engineering. And throughout almost two decades on this campus, I have found myself surrounded by faculty and students who have arrived on this campus because they wanted to be associated with the very best...the world leader...in education and research. These linked themes of leadership and excellence are what have kept me here...and what make this University so very special.

We believe the challenge of re-inventing the American university for the 21st Century...is not only an exciting and challenging mission for the 1990s...but it is also a mission befitting UM's long heritage of leadership...and it is also a challenge worthy of the army of maize and blue alumni across the nation and around the world.

Indeed, I'd be very surprised if you settled for anything less from your university! The 1990s will be a time of great challenge, opportunity, and responsibility for your university. But they will also be years of great excitement.

As we stand on the threshold of this great adventure of re-inventing the University for the 21st Century, Let me call on you to demonstrate yet again that extraordinary sense of loyalty and pride in your University that has been our key source of strength...

Let me call on you to show that "Go-Blue" spirit that is the key to our heritage and our destiny.
