¶ Argument in the shyppe of Fooles of this Worlde.

For the felysye and salute of all the humayne gendre is compyled and dyrecte the shyppe of fooles of this transitory worlde / in the whiche ascendenth all they that vageth from y² waye of trouthe / and from the playne ehortacyon of y² intelliectye vnnderstondyng in transmutable and obscure thoughtes of y² frayle body. Wherfore this present boke may be called satyre / notwithstanding that the fyrste auctoure dyde deyte hym in the newe intytulacyon of this present booke / for ryght so as by the poeyses and fyccyons / the auncynt poete dyde correcte y² ycees and fragylytees of mortall men. ¶ Semblably this present pagyne specifyth before theyr syght the estate and condycyon of men / to the ende that as a myrtroure they beholde the meurs and recytude of lyfe. Ne+uertheles thynke not ye lectours that I haue worde by worde dyrecte and reduced this presente booke oute of Frenshe in to our maternall tongue of Englyssh / for I haue onely (as resynteth Flaccus) taken enteryely the substaunce of the scripture / in esperauence that myn au+dcce presumptuous sholde be pardonned of the lectoures / hauynge aspcete vnto y² capacyte of my tendre ye+res / and the imbylycye of my lytel vnnderstondyng / in leuyng the egressyons poeysyons and fabulous obscur+tees / in achyeuynge the werke in facyle sentence and fa+mylyer style / in suppleynge al the reders to haue me for+

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE Sir Robert Devreux Knight, Erle of Essex and Ewe, Vicount Hereford, and Bourchier, Lord Ferrers of Chartleigh, Bourchier and Lovain, and Master of her Maiesties Horse.

THE faithfull love, and dute, (Right honorable) long since deservedly born, by my deceased Father, both to your Lordships Noble Grandfather, and likewise to the famous and worthy Erle your Father, (unto whom for divers respects, hee was much bounden being alioe, and being dead, left the like bond of dute, in vs his Children towards your Lordship) hath the more embosened me, (presuming on your Lordships great Courtesie) to publish under your favorable protectioll, these my unpolished verses, of hir Maiesties wherein, though I haue but shonwn my lesden skill, in a Golden Cause, yet hath the same prodeed from such ardent desire, and devotion in me, as thereby it may seeme, in some meane, to merite Toleracion, especially, sith it caneth a dutifull remembrance, of hir Maiesties most prosperous and peaceable raigne over vs: which having run the full, and Blessed Course, of Ninne and Twenty yeares; doth now, begin the Thirtieth, to the great joy, and inspeakable comfort of this hir Royal Kingdome; In reuerend regard whereof, this poore Poem is most dilietly intended. I humbly therefore, present it to the Courtoos acception of your most Honorable Lordship: Whom I beseech the Mojust to blesse, and enriche, with increase of all perfect Honour, long life, and euer during felicite.

Most humble at your good Lordships commandment. M. K.
